Shaping the Future of Ağrı: A New Editorial Era

Dear Colleagues,

It is with great enthusiasm that we welcome you to the April issue of Ağrı. It is a privilege to be part of a community committed to advancing both the science and clinical practice of pain medicine.

As part of this ongoing process, we are delighted to introduce our updated editorial team. We warmly welcome our newly appointed editors and express our sincere appreciation to all colleagues who will contribute to strengthening the scientific vision, editorial excellence, and international impact of the journal. We also extend our deepest gratitude to those who have previously supported Ağrı and played a role in its continued growth.

This transition is driven by a shared ambition: to elevate the scientific quality, accelerate editorial efficiency, and expand the global visibility of the journal. In the coming period, we aim to further optimize editorial workflows, reinforce a rigorous and fair peer-review system, and strengthen stronger engagement with the international scientific community. We also aim to promote multidisciplinary collaboration, support innovative and translational research, and encourage scholarly work that meaningfully bridges the gap between scientific discovery and everyday clinical practice.

We are confident that these developments will enhance the transparency, efficiency, and scientific influence of Ağrı. Our commitment remains firmly grounded in academic integrity, ethical publishing, and the pursuit of scientific excellence.

We would like to sincerely thank our authors, reviewers, and readers for their continued trust, energy, and support. Your contributions are the driving force behind the journal's progress, and we look forward to shaping a stronger and more impactful future together.

With our sincere regards,

Meltem Uyar
